SOPE EYRE.
THE LEADING ACTRESS OF WALLACK'S AND HER ARISTOCRATIC HUSBAND.

Channey R. Winslow Sues for a Divorce—Bredon and the Theatrical Fraternity Exercised Over the Separation of the Couple—Miss Eyre's Career—A Prominent Philadelphia Involved.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 17.—The joint world of dadaism and the drama is excited by the news from San Francisco that Sophie Eyre, the leading actress of Wallack's company, has been sued for divorce there by her new husband. Channey R. Winslow was considered a very unimpressive young man by all who met him in this city. He is one of the sons of A. A. Winslow, Vice-President of the First National Bank of Cincinnati, and among his friends was known as a gentle thoroughbred. He is not much over 30, a faultless dresser, a devotee of the theater, and a rapid fellow generally. In Cincinnati he moved in the first society and was well thought of. His father a few years ago helped to establish him in the business at San Francisco, and in that city he soon became commercially successful and socially popular. Late in 1883 or early in 1884 young Winslow took a European trip for business purposes. He returned about May of the latter year. On the steamer he met for the first time the actress known to the English stage as Sophie Eyre and fell in love with her, as he once admitted, at first sight. She was a handsome, deep-chested woman, with a beautiful eye, well marked features and a generous English foot. She was coming over, as she thought, to play the leading role in the company of Wallack's company.
Arthur Wallack having engaged her in London, after he had seen her act as company leading there. It is said Miss Eyre did not immediately respond to Winslow's affection. There was fair reason for this. She was already a widow and her first matrimonial venture had brought her only unhappiness. Not many months ago she told the writer that her correct name was Sophia Ryan and that she came into the world in that famous little town of Tipperary, Ireland.
There her father, an army officer, was garrisoned. Probably that was dangerously near fourty years ago, for the actress is mature in her bearing, though her conversation is of lightly unconventional. It is not difficult to imagine that, as a girl, she must have been the pride of Tipperary and a friend of the garrison. Her father was a man of letters, and he then says half of the garrison were well about her. She took to amateur theatricals and played some of the acts of her father's company. She was quite successful and soon held court over many bright uniforms. Capt.
Winslow met her in the city of Tipperary, and well family wore one of these uniforms and Sophie

FELL IN LOVE WITH HIM, as he had long before with her.
The romance flourished and they married, while the entire barracks wished them happiness. Yet it did not come to them, for Capt. Winslow was soon ordered to India.
He took his wife with him and there were no more private theatricals at the barracks. In India she was a faithful companion for four or five years, in fact until he died, when she stood at his side and closed his eyes. At once she returned to England, not to find consolation in the sympathy of her husband's family, but to seek in town living at best she could find. Her early amateur training then became useful to her, for she quickly planned to go upon the stage. She went through the usual difficulties and began as most English actresses do, by getting a chance in the provinces. In emotional roles she was at once highly praised, and in due time she secured London notice. In the big city she was comparatively a new comer when Arthur Wallack engaged her for his father's theater, the understanding being that she was to replace Rose Coughlin when that actress started on her stellar tour. It was thus that Miss Eyre and Winslow met on the American steamer, and when the actress reached here the place she had counted on was not quite ready for her.
Miss Coughlin had just quitted Wallack's. She was offered a good salary, and Lester Wallack paid it regularly, even though she did not play.
Shortly after he sent out a road company to play Robert Buchanan's version of "Le Maître de Forges," that popular drama by Georges Ohnet, which was being done in a half dozen versions about then, and as Lady Clare Miss Eyre faced an American audience for the first time in Utica, on June 25, 1884. The company traveled on until they reached San Francisco, and there Winslow renewed his suit. He was encouraged, and when Miss Eyre returned East he came with her. They reached New York about January 1, 1885, and nine days later

WERE MARRIED.
It is generally believed in Boston, although at the time she had apartments at the Victoria Hotel in this city. There were two good reasons why the union did not become publicly known until a month or so later. First of all Mr. Winslow had taken the step without the knowledge or approval of his family, and second, Wallack's manager, Chas. Frohman, aided in keeping the affair quiet as most managers do when an attractive lady weds.
For it means a loss of money to them when matrimony sets its prosaic seal on an actress.
But it came out four or five weeks later and Miss Eyre did not deny it. She said she was happy and Winslow was the typical young husband for a few months. The Wallack company got to Cincinnati about the March following and one of the sensations of their engagement was the publicity given for the first time to the marriage. It was known to have been a blow to the Winslow family's pride, but they made an effort to conceal their objection, for they finally recognized and admitted her, even giving a reception in her honor at their mountain residence. The honeymoon of the couple was extremely short.
Last fall Mrs. Winslow hired the second flat in the Grand Central apartment house, 69 West 42nd street, and the couple moved there. It was a "Miss Sophie Eyre" and "Mrs. Winslow" at the bell, and visitors, professional or not, were always hospitably entertained. But there or nothing was seen of Mr. Winslow. Thus it was guessed that he and his wife had fallen out. Miss Eyre's five or six rooms were furnished not lavishly, but in excellent taste, and she seemed to occupy them alone, save for the company of a young man, a friend of her maid, who was always with her mistress.
There were rumors that a member of a Fifth avenue club had become enamored of the actress and that the encouragement that she had openly given him had led to Mr. Winslow's objection. This ended in the rupture between them. Again it was known that another of her ancient admirers was a wealthy Philadelphian in the millinery business, who had become so enthusiastic over her as an actress that he was willing to back her on a starring tour of the country. Naturally her name soon became associated with the Philadelphia man in anything but a pleasant way. Now and then there were convivial gatherings at her flat and the actress herself was one of the gayest of entertainers. She was not a total abstainer. In all her actions she was independent and frank. She had trouble with Wallack over the position she held in his company, and when her term expired with Wallack she left him without anxious demur on his part. She was not disposed, for a California manager gave her an opportunity to go there with a summer company. Lowland Buckstone, a young son of the famous J. C. Buckstone, and a friend of Miss Eyre, wrote one of the Eyre flat is yet rented to her, the names of Eyre and Winslow still appearing at the bell. Miss Eyre's maid keeps in order and forwards her mistress' mail.
The bills are paid, and always have been, the janitor says, by Miss Eyre.

DRAMATIC.

The Stars and Attractions on the List for Next Season.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 17.—The next dramatic season, beginning early in the autumn, will be brisk and eventful. Its promise is remarkable and its results are likely to be memorable. Much attention will be directed to the political drama, which is a good sign, although less may be actually accomplished in that line than is undertaken. There will be ten English-speaking star actors in the field who will devote some of their time to Shaks-peare, and the list of plays of most of these will include scarcely anything not properly belonging to the standard drama of our language. There will be at least three Hamlets "on the road" at the beginning, and three of them are likely to be Hamlets still when the winter months of the spring. The name of the repertoire of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Wilson Barrett, Fred. Ward, Louis James and Robert Mantell. T. W. Keen will confine his efforts chiefly to "Richard III." alternating with one or two other plays when the occasion requires a change; Charles Pope, hale and well preserved, with all the traditions of Macready's school at his finger tips, will play "Virginius," "Othello," "Macbeth" and "Henry VIII." "Samson" is a play which will be seen. "The Gladiator," "The Virginian" and other heroic roles. Frederick Ward will take a back at about everything he can touch in the line of tragedy. Louis James will revive "Gisippus," "Laugh When You Can," and appear with "Hamlet" by Mrs.
Wainwright, in several Shakespearian plays besides "Hamlet." Mr. Mantell's repertoire will have a wide range, and he will have a modern play evolved by Mr. Keller and will revel in the sickly sentimentality of "The Marble Heart," and now lend his pleasing voice to the grand cadences of Elizabethan verse. Mr. L. L. Downing will confine his talent to the impersonation of Spartacus, picking up and wearing, if he can, the mantle that fell from the shoulders of John McCullough. The Meininger players are expected to give us Schiller's plays and the German idea of Shaks-peare. The great Coquelin will be here with a company of his own to give French comedy and romantic drama. Mrs. Langtry is coming back, bringing Mr. Chas. Coghlan and his new play "Romeo," and plenty of new clothes. Genevieve Ward will be here with an enlarged repertoire. Mollieka will bring her perfect artistic methods and rare intelligence to the embodiment of new characters.
Early in the spring Sarah Bernhardt will reach America. Prominent among the peripatetic stars who will be seen in these combinations will be Miss Coghlan, with an extensive repertoire and Chas. Barron as leading actor; Mrs. Davenport, supported by John E. Burton; Miss Clara Morris, in her familiar characters; Lotta, Maggie Mitchell, Emmet, Joseph Murphy, Mr. Scanlon, Kate Claxton, James Florence, Raymond, Robson and Crane, the latter as Falstaff and the former as Shallow, and all the others of the host who make good living and something more by amusing the great public.

VERY ECCENTRIC.

A Southern Woman Who Liked Stale Food and Strange Pets.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 17.—About twenty years ago a maiden lady named Susan A. Hoffman, then 25 years old, came to Elmira from Virginia. She was eccentric, was full of Southern spirit that prevailed at that time, and became possessed of the idea that the people of the North were her enemies and would eventually murder her. Ever since the time mentioned she has occupied rooms in a tenement building on the corner of Main and Clinton streets. She lived on stale meat, vegetables and berries that she gathered from neighboring stores and thrived on that kind of diet, putting to rest all theories regarding the un-wholesomeness of stale food promulgated by the doctors. Although she has well-to-do relatives in Indiana, who have paid her rent and sent her money, she refused to have anything to do with them. In all these years she has shunned society and wanted neither man, woman or child to associate with or even to speak to. Her sole associates have been a number of pets—a canary bird, a hen, a rooster and a pigeon being the chief ones. At one time her rooster, from some unknown cause, died. She grieved as over the loss of a child, but got the better of her sorrow.
The strangest thing about this proceeding is that she refused to eat and she therefore trained the pigeon to that duty. Her rooms were filled with every imaginable article, old hat-ties, bones, sticks and all kinds of rubbish that could be picked up in the streets until the place was filled. The premises where she lived finally became so filthy that the Board of Health abated the nuisance. Her brothers were written to and they professed a willingness to support her and do anything in their power to alleviate her condition. A consultation resulted in the decision that it was best to send her to an asylum and she was taken to Buffalo yesterday.

STEPPED OFF THE TRAIN.

The Thrilling Adventure of a Little Three-Year-Old Boy.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 17.—Mrs. George H. Borden accompanied by her son, aged 3 years, and little daughter, aged 18 months, left town Tuesday on a visit to Boston. At Binghamton she took a sleeper on the Boston express, leaving that city at 12:35 last night and arriving at 6 in the morning. After Singlerlands was passed she allowed the children to go out into the passage of the sleeper while she was doing up her hair. This completed, she turned to look for the children. The partly opened door and the absence of the boy told its own story.
When the train reached Albany telegrams were dispatched to Belmont to search for the lost boy. Two hours later the welcome intelligence was received: "Found." When discovered he was in a sad plight, lying along the track in the direction of Albany and had already covered a mile of the distance. He was brought to Albany last evening. A slight cut on the back of his neck was his only injury.
Mrs. Borden and children left for Boston.

THE IRISH NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT.

A Characteristic Letter from Ex-Speaker Randall on Home Rule in Ireland.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 17.—At a very enthusiastic meeting of the General Committee upon the Irish National Encampment, to be held at an early date, was held at Murray's Hall, Newark, N. J., last night. The following letter was received from ex-Speaker Randall: Joseph S. Atkinson, Esq., General Manager Irish National Festival, Newark, N. J.: DEAR SIR:—I acknowledge your kind invitation to be present at the coming Irish National Festival. There is not a man who loves liberty anywhere in this country who does not sympathize with the success of the Irish and home rule in Ireland. When subjected to this test, the base hypocrisy and tended friends of freedom is at once exposed. God will guard the right in his own good time, and from what we see and what we know, the day is not far when the plain slab that marks the grave of Robert Emmet will be resplendent with the words which it has so long waited: "Ireland is free."
With great respect, I am, very truly, SAMUEL J. RANDALL.
Washington, D. C., June 14, 1886.

Pollard's Swindles.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 17.—More fraudulent township warrants issued by B. B. Pollard, the chief conspirator in the gigantic swindling scheme which was discovered last fall, have just turned up, a demand being made on a trustee in Jackson County by an attorney representing the holder for their payment.
The bonds bear the indorsement of Pollard, who, when last heard from, was in New Zealand, and it is supposed that they came directly from him. It is stated that the warrants will aggregate several thousand dollars.

LATEST EDITION

THE GRAND OLD MAN.

GLADSTONE'S DEPARTURE FOR EDINBURGH MADE A GRAND OVERTURE.

Thousands of People at the Railway Station Greet and Cheer the Premier—Signs of Tory Weakness—Earl Spencer's Speech—A Clash Between Church and State in France—Foreign News.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 17.—The astounding man set forth on his expedition to conquer the country this morning amid scenes of enthusiasm almost unparalleled, even in his career. He drove, as usual, in an open carriage, accompanied by Mrs. Gladstone, who, apparently, never leaves him for a moment. He wore a light blue suit. As he bowed to the thousands of people who lined the streets, he was greeted with a hail of cheers that went up from almost every group he passed on the long drive from Downing street to St. Pancras. Mr. Gladstone looked extremely well and seemed in the best of spirits. I learn that his voice is in excellent condition. Outside of St. Pancras a huge crowd assembled and gave him an ovation. The train inside the station was unusually long. His saloon was at least a hundred yards from the booking office. Every foot of space between the two was covered with masses of people, except a narrow lane through which he walked. It was only with the greatest difficulty that he made his way. Everybody seemed determined to grasp his hand. Dozens of ladies pressed forward to thrust flowers upon him as he advanced. The people closed behind him pressing against him to the very door of the saloon carriage. All this time there was ONE UNINTERRUPTED CHEER.

When he reached the carriage he disposed his flowers round him, and then in response to irresistible cries opened the window. Speaking in a full, clear voice he addressed the people for a few minutes. He said he understood what their enthusiasm meant. He pointed out, as he never loses opportunity of doing now, the exact issue of the election, namely between Salisbury and coercion and himself and coalition. At the principal stations along the route arrangements are being made for him to say a few words to public meetings gathered in the yards of the railway stations. I hear that besides his Scotch speeches, he will also address two or three meetings in the North of England, probably on his return if his health continues good, also a mass-meeting in the East End of London.

The English Elections.

Special Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 17.—The House of Commons assembled yesterday for the transaction of nothing but absolutely necessary business. The attendance was small and the opening proceedings uninteresting. It having been expected that there would be no opposition to passing the appropriation bill. In fact, London has ceased to be a central political world. The real political interest of the day lies in the action taken by the political societies and constituents now represented by the ninety-three Liberal members who voted against home rule. The few straws thrown up showing how the wind blows here, I hear, already had the effect of changing the prevailing confidence at last expressed by the Tories. Mr. Gladstone's address, narrowing the issue in the elections practically to coercion or non-coercion and describing the self-styled Unionists as "paper Unionists," have borne fruit thus early, although at this moment it must be confessed that the Ministerialists are believed in some quarters to be fearful of a small majority against them. Nevertheless, there is a more hopeful tone now. The seceder, Col. Schwab of Lancashire, has mounted the fence, declaring his willingness to accept Mr. Gladstone's proposal that Ireland should, under well considered conditions, transact her own affairs. The vote at Bodmin and Liskeard against Mr. Courtney, and the dissatisfaction expressed at Islington against Mr. Chamberlain, indicate that these Gladstonians cannot be re-elected except by every help. At Burnley, the Liberals, 300, voted 27 to 27 against William Sumner's opposition. Mr. P. Rylands, the present member, at South St. Pancras.

THE RECALCITRANT SIR J. GOLDSMID will be vigorously opposed. Among other opponents of home rule, Richard Davis, from Anglesea, will be replaced by Lewis Morris, who is a home ruler. Sir J. J. Jenkins of Carmarthen has retired, and two home rule candidates are already in the field. Mr. B. Bickerstaff of Newport will be opposed by a Conservative, contrary to the plan adopted by the Conservative party. Mr. A. G. Kitching will be hotly opposed at Maid. Mr. H. Lethbridge of North Kensington will have an able home ruler against him in the person of Edmund Routledge. Mr. H. B. Loe of East Islington is again to stand in spite of the opposition of many of his supporters. Maj. G. Marton of Lancaster is almost certain to be defeated by Mr. Williamson, a home ruler. Even Sir Charles Dilke, notwithstanding the general opinion that the recent scandal will prevent his election, has received the support of a large meeting in Chelsea for the sole reason that he voted for the second reading. Gladstone leaves for Scotland today. Col. Campbell Walker has announced his intention of contesting Midlothian in interest of the Conservatives against the old parliamentary hand. This has caused much amusement.

ENGLAND.
EARL SPENCER'S SPEECH.
LONDON, June 17.—In a speech at Chester, last evening, Earl Spencer, Lord President of the Council, intimated that the land purchase bill would not be dropped. He said that the Government was determined to go to a combination of two parties which were unable to form a Government, either singly or combined, because they agreed upon no policy except that of opposing Mr. Gladstone. He declared that separation was impossible, and that the Irish knew and acknowledged the fact.

SALISBURY'S REPLY.
Lord Salisbury, replying to a correspondent, who calls Mr. Gladstone's reference in his manifesto concerning coercion for twenty years a gross distortion of Lord Salisbury's words and a deliberate misstatement, says: "I think your language hardly exaggerated. I never proposed to enforce new repressive laws for twenty years."

DILKE'S APPEAL.
Sir Charles Dilke has given notice that he will appeal from the decision of Justice Sir James Hannen, made on the 11th instant, denying Sir Charles and Mrs. Crawford the privilege of being made parties to the Dilke-Crawford case as respondents by the Queen's proctor. Sir Charles insists upon his right to deny under oath the charge made by Mrs. Crawford and to have her subjected to a cross examination.

PARNELL'S MANIFESTO.
Mr. Parnell is preparing an election manifesto. It will be addressed to the English people, and its purpose will be to reassure them concerning the consequences of granting home rule to Ireland.

ple, and its purpose will be to reassure them concerning the consequences of granting home rule to Ireland.

THE PARNELLITES.
Most of the Parnellite members of the House of Commons have left London and gone to Ireland. Mr. Parnell and T. P. O'Connor remain here and will stay until after the dissolution of Parliament has been discussed. The National League will hold a general meeting in Dublin for the purpose of considering the general party situation. The meeting will issue a manifesto to the Irishmen of Great Britain.

GLADSTONE'S MIDLOTHIAN CAMPAIGN.
Mr. Gladstone will start on his Midlothian campaign tomorrow morning. He has arranged to make brief speeches along the way, at Leicester, and, if possible, at Skipton, Carlisle, Hawick and Glasgow. Upon reaching Edinburgh, the Premier will proceed direct to his hotel. He will make his appearance before the Scotch public in Edinburgh on Friday evening, when he will make a great campaign speech. Mrs. Gladstone will accompany her husband throughout his Midlothian campaign, and their son will complete the party.

GLADSTONE'S ANTI-SLAVERY SPEECH.
Mr. Gladstone started this morning at 11 o'clock on his Scotch campaign. He was accompanied by Mrs. Gladstone. Thousands of people congregated at the railway to witness his departure. The crowd was simply enormous. It blocked and delayed the approach of the Premier's carriage. When Mr. Gladstone finally succeeded in reaching the station platform he found it packed with people who welcomed him with enthusiastic cheering. At last he reached his seat in the special coach assigned for his conveyance. The widow at his seat was open. When the crowd saw him through the window it set up another cheer, which was repeated several times. The people appeared desirous of having the Premier address them with some parting words before going away on his arduous errand. He arose and spoke from the coach window. He thanked the people for the honor of their extraordinary demonstration. He adjured them to allow nothing to hide from them the "bare question of the hour."

"Attempts have been made," the venerable orator exclaimed, "and will be made to divert your attention from the real question at issue. This question is solely whether Ireland shall be trusted to manage her own affairs. Those who deny Ireland this right admit that Canada and the other British colonies enjoy such rights. Are we to trust our fellow subjects in Ireland and govern by love, or are we to adopt the policy of the Government's enemies and introduce into Ireland government by force?" Mr. Gladstone then bade his hearers good-by and the train moved away. Enthusiastic and prolonged cheering accompanied its departure, and hundreds of people waving handkerchiefs and hats and God-speeding the Premier and his family as they bade his coach until the train outsped him.

FLATTERING HARTINGTON.
The Standard pronounces Lord Hartington's manifesto a straightforward and courageous statement. The most significant passage of it, the paper says, is reserved for the last, and refers to the Parnellite obstruction in Parliament as rebellion. "This," says the Standard, "is the first time that a leading statesman has had the moral courage to suggest publicly what thousands have been thinking in private. It will serve to remind Englishmen that if they do not wish to be at the mercy of Parnell they have the remedy in their own hands."

CAINE'S MANIFESTO.
Mr. Caine, Liberal, has issued a manifesto to his constituents. He says it is an easy matter to draft an alternative to Mr. Gladstone's home rule scheme, which would give Ireland wide self-government and at the same time refer to the Imperial Parliament for the declaration that he will oppose any scheme to buy out Irish landlords with English money.

O'CONNOR'S CIRCULAR.
A circular signed by Thomas Power O'Connor, M. P., has been issued to 400 branches of the Irish National League in Great Britain, ordering the formation of election committees and other preparations for the coming struggle, and says that explicit instructions to cordially and energetically support Gladstonian Liberals will be forwarded later.

THE DOMINION.
CUSTOMS PORTS IN THE NORTHWEST.
OTTAWA, Ont., June 17.—The Dominion Government has commenced the organization of regular customs ports in the Northwest territories on a basis similar to that which exists in the Eastern provinces. The officers of the Northwest mounted police will continue to act as collectors of customs until the system is regularly established. In the matter of several large seizures recently made by the customs officers at Montreal the department has forfeited the money deposited as security, but still holds claims for the recovery of any penalty the law on such cases provides for.

FRANCE.
SEIZING NEW TERRITORY.
LONDON, June 17.—Advices from the British Consulate at Noumea, the capital of the French Colony of New Caledonia, state that the French military and naval expedition which recently proceeded thence to the New Hebrides Islands, hoisted the French flag over the island of Ouvea, and that the captain of the French transport which performed the ceremony had been visited by the captain of a British man-of-war lying in the vicinity. England is engaged in seeking from France a recognition of the truth or falsity of the above report.

CHURCH AND STATE CLASH.
PARIS, June 17.—M. Goblet, Minister of Public Instruction, has prohibited the meeting of the Church Congress arranged to be held at Angoulême. The prohibition is based on the grounds that the Congress is to be devoted to not deliberative and decided that the office of Public Instruction has the power to prohibit its meeting. The Archbishop announces that he will not attend, therefore, he held despite M. Goblet's orders.

GERMANY.
PROVING LUDWIG'S INSANITY.
MUNICH, June 17.—Among the documents which have been submitted to the Diet, to prove the insanity of the late King Ludwig, is a decree of the dead monarch sentencing a number of the Ministers to banishment to America. The advocates of thirty persons, who also have been submitted, in which it is stated that the King injured them by throwing at them knives, clubs and guns. The Christian Brothers Claim.
A special telegram to the Post-Dispatch announces that the Senate this afternoon passed the bill for the relief of the Christian Brothers. The claim of the Brothers was for the use of a port of refuge for their college by the Government troops during the war. It was not until a good many years after the war that the Brothers pressed their claim. Although it was conceded to be just for some reason or other Congress and the Senate were slow about acting upon it. The claim was about $20,000.

THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF ST. VINCENT AND LORETTO ACADEMIES.

Lovefulness and Learning Linked—Charming High School Graduates—Interesting Exercises by the Graduates and Pupils—The Art Exhibition—Awarding of Prizes and Honors.

This morning at 9 o'clock the large hall of St. Vincent's Seminary, at Grand and Lucas avenues, was thrown open to the friends of the institution who desired to enjoy the closing exercises of the school. The hall presented a beautiful picture, with its curtained windows garnished with roses and baskets of flowers and plants suspended from the center. Over the doorway was placed the word "Welcome." On each side was a pyramidal stand containing handsome books to be distributed as prizes to the young ladies who have earned distinction because of their good deportment and scholarship. Lace portieres veiled the doorway, making a very effective tableau, as at the first notes of the entrance march they were parted by two little sprites—Mella Gerardi and Etta Champin, golden and brown haired, dressed in muslin and lace with blue ribbons, revealing behind them a long line of little maidens of all ages, who made their entrance keeping step to the music, and with Grace Sullivan took their places in the ranks. After the children were seated.

A Pot of Gold Unearthed While Excavating for a Reservoir.
HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 17.—Peter Herd, once known as the Williamsport lumber king, received the contract, a year ago to supply Huntingdon with water. Yesterday afternoon his men were excavating at the new reservoir at the head of Fifth street. When at a depth of about eight feet from the surface, J. D. McClain discovered an earthen pot, securely hid, which was filled to the brim with Mexican and American gold and silver coins of ancient date. McClain refuses to make public the amount of money the pot contained, but says it was several thousand dollars. As soon as the discovery was made known Mr. Herd put in a claim for the treasure on the ground that it was found on his property, while McClain insists that it is under the common law relating to treasure trove. Mrs. Christian Colestock is another claimant. Her deceased husband sold the land to Herd and the widow alleges that the money was buried by Colestock years ago for safe-keeping. All the parties have engaged counsel and the ownership of the contents of the pot will be tested in the court.

Flag Hats and Rosettes Cause Trouble in the School Board.—News from Over the River.

There is a prospect of the harmonious feeling existing between the members of the Board of Education being turned into bitter animosity. The party responsible for the change in feeling is Superintendent M. O. Sullivan of the Franklin School, although he will probably be as much surprised as any one else to learn that he has been the cause of any disagreement.

A few days ago Mr. Sullivan was talking on a street corner with two of the members of the Board, and the conversation turned upon the annual picnic which is to occur next Tuesday. Mr. Sullivan suggested that it would be a good idea for the members of the Board to go to the picnic in carriages and wear white plug hats and gloves and rosettes on their coats, so as to make an impressive showing. His suggestion met with great favor in view of the two members with whom he was conversing at the time, but soon the conversation turned upon something else and nothing further was said about the prospective picnic.

Mr. Sullivan, however, made up his mind that the members of the Board should wear the plugs and rosettes, and he went home he penned a note to the principals of each school informing them that they should make an assessment of $1 each on each of the teachers, and subscribe $1.50 for themselves for the purpose of purchasing the plugs and rosettes. The principals did not like the idea, but thinking it would be policy to carry it out the assessment was made. Mr. Sullivan, however, was passing the story of Michael Walsh, one of the members of the Board, and in asking his wife what number her husband wore. She referred him to Mr. Walsh himself, but he refused to do so. The latter insisted on knowing why he desired the information, and when told that he wanted him to do so, he became very angry and threatened to sue Mr. Sullivan for libel.

He was furious. He censured Sullivan severely, and the assessment made on the teachers for the purpose at hand was mere extortion, and swore that he would neither ride in a carriage nor wear a plug hat obtained by any such extortion. The principals of the schools, however, could pay for them if they wished. Another member, when informed of Mr. Sullivan's plan, told him that he would not do so, and Sullivan, though he did not mean to, will be made to sincerely regret that he ever fostered a scheme to punish the school members with white plugs and rosettes to attend the annual picnic.

The line of march of the Public School picnic next Tuesday will be as follows: The Franklin School pupils will lead the procession, followed by the Catholic schools, and then the Protestant schools. The procession will then continue north on Cornwell to Illinois, east on Illinois to the Upper and High schools, where the children of those schools will fall in. The procession will then turn west on Cornwell to Illinois, east on Illinois to the Upper and High schools, where the children of those schools will fall in. HAGGIN'S HORSE ON HAND FOR THE GREAT CONTEST TO-MORROW.

The winners of yesterday's events—a visit to the Haggins grounds and a description of the book-makers' methods—Gossip from the Quarter-street.

Judges—Charles Green, Julius S. Walsh and John M. Scullen. Timers—Ed Martin, Matt Thomas and Capt. Cottrill. Starter—James G. Sheridan.

Oppressively hot and threatening weather again prevailed unfavorably and the attendance at the Fair grounds track was not large yesterday. In fact, the middle of June is too late for successful racing at St. Louis. The weather as a general thing is too warm to be comfortable and the St. Louis Fair Horse Department should endeavor to have their meeting come off earlier in the season. The old Jockey Club had their races to follow immediately after the Louisville meeting; but it appears that Latonia has slipped in and taken the old club's dates. This is all wrong and Latonia should be expostulated with.

In a mild but firm manner and indeed in a somewhat stern tone, the Fair Grounds Horse Department is too big an institution and gives too much money to have her race meeting thrown into a season of the year when it is entirely too warm to make outdoor sports popular, let them be ever so attractive.

The sports yesterday were made more comfortable by the fact that the weather was not so hot as it was yesterday. The blow, however, only lasted a few minutes and did no damage. A few of the lady occupants of the grand stand were frightened by the flapping of the awnings on the southern part of the stand, but soon regained their composure and enjoyed the sports dished up for them by the city.

YESTERDAY'S EVENTS.
The first race on the card was one and eight miles, in which the entries and betting was as follows: John Sullivan, $25; Mantou, $10; and Jim Nave, $5. The race was a good one, but Jim Nave taking the lead at the start, and retaining it to the end, and being beaten out by a short head, Mantou took the prize. Time, 2:34. The race proved a very unsatisfactory one to the backers of the favorite, as he was looked upon as almost a sure winner, but he was never in the race.

The second race was one mile and a quarter, the entries and betting was as follows: Buchanan, $60; Grimaldi, $25; Elm, $15, and the Wagon, $10. The race was a very pretty start, the favorite going to the front and setting the pace, but Buchanan and Grimaldi running head and head close up, while Elm and the Wagon were trailing in the rear. The positions remained unchanged until the stable turn was reached, when Grimaldi shook loose from Buchanan and went for the leader.

On rounding into the home stretch, Grimaldi and May Lady were on even terms and raced up to the finish, but Buchanan, who had made a desperate dash just before reaching the last quarter, but could not catch the leader, Grimaldi passed under the wire winner by a short head; Buchanan third, a length behind May Lady. Time, 2:14.

The third race was the Street Railway Stake for 3-year-olds, one mile and three-eighths. The starters were restricted to the Bourbon place, and the race was a very pretty one, but a very heavy rain setting in at the conclusion of the second race, making the track a perfect sea of mud, he was drenched.

The betting was $100 to $5 in favor of the Bourbon place, but the mud was so bad that the money laid on him by his backers. Time, 2:39.

The last race was the Gas Company's Handicap Sweepstakes for all ages, one mile and one-eighth, for which eight fads the starter was Garland, $25; Pearl Jennings, $20; Jennie B, $4; Finality, $27; Alfred, $16; Joquita, $20; Ten Stone, $25 and Highlight, $15. Alfred and Pearl Jennings were in the front, followed by Jennie B, and the balance in a bunch together. On passing the stand Joquita, Finality and Highlight were in the front, followed by Pearl Jennings, and the balance in a bunch together.

These positions were not changed until the last quarter, when Pearl Jennings, who had been taking the mud with the rear platform, shot through the crowd to the front. He was followed by Pearl Jennings, who had the most approved style by a half a length, Garland second, a length ahead of Finality third.

The last race was one mile and a quarter, for 3-year-olds, in which the entries and betting were as follows: John A. and Burr Oaks, the former having the call in betting at odds of 10 to 1. The race was a very pretty one, as he took the lead on the first turn and won as he pleased; in fact, Murphy, who had the mount on John A., pulled his horse on the home stretch to an exercising gallop, in hopes of making an interesting finish, but his horse cantered out a winner by several lengths.

THE PROGRAMME FOR TO-MORROW will be found below and is of a very interesting one. In addition to the great match race between Pearl Jennings and John A. and Burr Oaks, Tyrant, for $5,000 a side, there will be a race of six furlongs, one of a mile and a quarter for 3-year-olds, and a race of one and one-eighth miles for all ages, for a $500 purse by Messrs Hart & Dickinson. Such attractions should call out a large attendance.

First race, purse of $500, of which $25 to second, $10 to third, $5 to fourth, $2 to fifth, $1 to sixth, $1 to seventh, $1 to eighth, $1 to ninth, $1 to tenth, $1 to eleventh, $1 to
